What is IRIS Project about?

The IRIS project aims to help European CERTs/CSIRTs minimise the impact of cybersecurity and privacy risks as well as threats introduced by cyber-physical vulnerabilities in IoT platforms and adversarial attacks on AI provisions and their learning/decision-making algorithms. The project extends from September 2021 until August 2024 led by a consortium of 19 European partners, with INOV being the project coordinator, that include public organizations, SMEs with innovative cyber technologies, large industries as service providers, and research and academic partners with significant achievements to cybersecurity and privacy technologies.

IRIS's vision is to integrate and demonstrate a single platform addressed to CERTs/CSIRTs for assessing, detecting, responding to and sharing information regarding threats & vulnerabilities of IoT and AI-driven ICT systems.
